

Editorial Rivetting the Shackles

AS INTIMATED as several days ago, the association of Mortgage and Loan companies is reported to be offering the Government of Alberta a plan to reduce debt claims against dry belt farms in exchange for the arrangement to

The proposal in substance is said to be that accrued interest on farm mortgages in those areas would be written off to January 1, 1935, and interest rates on all farm mortgages in the area reduced to 6 per cent. For similar "concessions" the Government of Saskatchewan, the Dominion Government, and the municipalities concerned cancelled tax arrears in the dry districts amounting to twice the total amount of interest written off.

- Any such arrangement is not good enough for Alberta.
- It would apply only to the drought areas of the province.
- It would not apply to town home-owners.
- It would set interest rates on farm loans there twenty per cent higher than the rate the Dominion Government has said such loans should bear and which the Board of Review under the Farmers Creditors' Arrangement Act has been applying in this province.

Hon. Charles A. Dunning has set 5 per cent as the maximum rate to be charged on loans made anywhere in Canada under the Farm Loan Board, and the same rate as the maximum under the Dominion Housing Act.

Chief Justice Charles R. Mitchell last fall fixed 5 per cent as the maximum rate to be charged under settlements made by the Alberta Board of Review under the Farmers Creditors' Arrangement Act. Hundreds of debt claims have been settled on that basis.

Five per cent has been fixed as the maximum that should be allowed on farm loans anywhere in Alberta. To allow six per cent on the debts of farmers in the dry areas—who are least able to pay either interest or debts—would be penalizing farmers there for a rate twenty per cent higher than farmers in more favored sections are required to pay.

There is nothing in that proposal to hold out a hope of solution for the dry belt farmer. The net result of it would be to clear off tax arrears and all other prior claims at the expense of the public, and give the mortgage-holders brand new mortgages on dry belt farms, with nothing ahead of them, at 6 per cent interest.

MORTGAGE MEN SUBMIT PLANS FOR DEBT CUT

Would Slash Rates On Farm Loans, Cancel Arrears in Dry Areas

A voluntary debt reduction plan for Alberta, designed particularly to reduce interest rates on farm mortgages and cancel arrears in drought areas was submitted to Premier Abernethy last night by representatives of the Dominion Mortgage and Investment Association of Alberta.

The basis of the plan was division of the province into drought and non-drought areas, calculated on crop records for the last five years. In both areas, interest rates would be reduced to six per cent on farm mortgages. In drought areas, unpaid interest accumulated since 1925 to Feb. 1, 1935, would be cancelled.

PROPOSALS SUBMITTED
The following were the proposals for the drought areas of the province:
1—Interest rates on farm mortgages to be reduced to six per cent.

UNITED FARMERS STUDY PROGRAM SECURITY PLANS

CALGARY, Feb. 25.—A program designed to provide "security and insurance for all" by the United Farmers of Alberta membership for study today.

The program, it was announced by Robert Gardner, U.F.A. president, embraces the provincial plan form of the Canadian Commonwealth Development Corporation, which the farm organization is aligned for political action.

Under it there would be debt free farms, electrification of rural areas, plans for provincial labor and employment departments, socialization of finance with a tax and a fund based on "ability to pay" and development of natural resources to supply services at cost to the public. The natural resources plan of the federal government, such as coal, water power, gas and oil.

After study the program will go before the U.F.A. convention in Edmonton in January. It was announced that the provincial political action plan of the U.F.A. group in the next Alberta election.

Provincial Chief Justice Delivers Throne Address

To the accompaniment of a 15 gun salute from the 1st Battery Canadian Artillery the third session of the eighth legislature of Alberta was opened at 3 p.m. on Thursday by Chief Justice Horace Harvey, as administrator of the province. Ceremonies surrounding the opening were colorful, impressive and memorable, as the session now under way promises to be one of the most far-reaching, epochal, in the history of the province.

Practically all members were in their places as the house opened, galleries were crowded far beyond their normal capacity and in order to bring the ceremonies and the main theme of the proceedings as possible, the gains were broadcast.

It is estimated that fully 600 people were within the confines of the throne chamber as the opening took place. Long before doors were thrown open at 2:30 p.m. the galleries in the legislative corridors, those with access close to the Speakers' and members' galleries, and the main door leading to the floor of the house, those relying on admission to the public galleries were early in line to obtain the choice seats.

CART OF MAIN THEMES
The cart had been laid on the main steps leading to the building, the route of the procession was on the sides of the main staircase. A heavy red carpet also laid on the staircase leading to the floor of the chamber.

MR. SPEAKER AND MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY
It is my privilege and pleasure to welcome you to the third Session of the eighth legislature of the Province of Alberta.

An opportunity will be given you to approve a resolution, embodying measures of loyal devotion and affection to the throne and person of His Gracious Majesty, King George the Sixth and our much adored Queen Elizabeth.

My humblest greetings, Almighty God to vouchsafe to His Majesty, King George the Sixth, long life, good health, wisdom, and strength for a long, prosperous and happy reign, and to the Queen, long life, good health, wisdom, and strength for a long, prosperous and happy reign.

43 MILLIONS DEFICIT SHOWN BY C.N. ROAD

Interest Charges Run To Fabulous Sum of Nearly 50 Millions

OTTAWA, Feb. 25.—A deficit of $43,000,000 for the Canadian National Railways during the last calendar year was reported by Finance Minister Dunning in his budget speech today.

Operating revenues of the company increased $134,000,000 over the previous year, or 77 per cent. "However," the minister said, "operating expenses increased by the same ratio and the net revenue after taxes, rentals, etc., available for interest on debt was $6,000,000 in the previous year."

RELIEF COSTS

The increased operating expenses were due in part to the costs absorbed by the company under the various government relief programs. Relief programs cost the government $40,000,000 in the previous year.

"After applying the $6,000,000 available from earnings to interest charges of $40,000,000 there was left a net income cash deficit of $34,000,000 which had to be covered by the Dominion and charged to expense in the current fiscal year."

"This cash deficit compares with $10,000,000 for 1935, the improvement being entirely due to reduction in interest charges resulting from refunding of securities at lower rates of interest."

LOAN TO COMPANY

"It should be borne in mind that there are certain cash charges on the railway accounts which should be taken into account in reviewing the accounts. The deficit for the year of cash deficit with the loss for the year as shown by the annual report of the railway company."

The government this year will loan the company $9,000,000 for miscellaneous debt refinancing, and $10,000,000 for the purchase of new equipment purchased under the special supplementary estimates. The company paid back $200,000 of the amount loaned it last year.

QUEBEC PLANS HYDRO BOARD

QUEBEC, Feb. 25.—Legislation will be introduced immediately by the Quebec government for creation of a hydro-electric power commission with authority to set up power development plans.

Quebec's prospective venture into the ownership of the province's power in Ontario, was announced in the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the second session of the province's 20th legislature, yesterday.

Premier Duplessis' decision to have the province's power placed in opposition to private companies brought no immediate response from the three major power companies with which the province claimed be refused to enter state ownership.

given—that the appropriation is to be used solely for the defence of Canadian territory; none of it must be used in operations outside Canada.

That is plain foolishness. Nobody knows or can know how Canada's defence forces will be employed, or where, six months from date. That is a matter which always must be settled as it has been settled, by force of public opinion when the time for decision arrives. Who can say that guns bought with some of this money will not be used abroad some time in future? The people of Canada will decide that when the time comes, regardless of what parliament or Government may think or intend at present.

BANKS AND THE PUBLIC

Admitting they need a "public relations man," which outsiders will not dispute, the Bankers' Association have made a good choice in Mr. V. K. Knowles, whose qualifications for the place are well and widely known.

If the idea is that the new official should function as a shock absorber, the appointment is seven years late, for the banks have had a good deal of absorbing business lately, and are taking surely more friendly relations with the public than the banks and the public, has a field as wide as the Dominion, with opportunities running all along the line. The men on relief to men who once thought they were on Easy Street.

Canadian banks are a long way from enjoying the popularity that once was theirs. That is not all their fault, though some of it is, but the circumstance is unfortunate and, unless the banks and the community, as well as for the banks. The country needs banks just as it needs stores, factories, and other things, and the kind of institutions that are being set up are likely to be of use to the community, if slowly. But the institutions themselves are essential factors in the scheme of things.

The appointment of an official whose business will be to make and keep friendly contacts between the lenders of credit and those who need it, is a step in the right direction. It suggests a possible intention on the part of the bankers to try to give constructive leadership and understanding to the community. It is a step in the right direction, if slowly. But the institutions themselves
things.

The average contract rate of interest on bonds of the province of Alberta is 4.50 per cent. The Government has declared the taxpayers of the province cannot pay this rate, that it must be cut approximately in half. While they differ as to the methods by which the reduction should be brought about, nine out of ten people in the province agree that on the necessity of reduction the Government is right.

The average contract rate of interest on bonds of the city of Edmonton is 5.24 per cent. The council has concluded an agreement by which the taxpayers of the city are obliged to go on paying that rate until the bonds mature, and then to pay 5.24 per cent average interest rates while the principal taxpayers cannot pay 4.50 per cent. That notion may be flattering, but it isn't fact.

Does council get the notion that residents of Edmonton are so much wealthier on the average than people of the province generally that they can pay 5.24 per cent average interest rates while principal taxpayers cannot pay 4.50 per cent? That notion may be flattering, but it isn't fact.

THE MORATORIUM

No one can have been surprised by the announcement of a moratorium on private debts in Alberta. It had been widely predicted for several days, and was to be expected following the court decision invalidating the Reduction and Settlement of Debts Act.

In sporting language the Government is "taking time out" to study the effects of the judgment, and until the whole question of the reduction and settlement of debts can be considered. "Sixty days is the limit of the present suspension, but this can be extended to enforce payment of the debts." Like many other human experiences and contrivances—like life itself—a moratorium is something which is known but whose end is unpredictable.

In general terms the moratorium is limited to debts intended to be affected by the disallowed legislation of the Reduction and Settlement of Debts Act.

Taxes and other debts due to or by Governments, municipalities, schools, boards and other public bodies have to be paid as usual. "Mortgages, liens and encumbrances" make up the bulk of the obligations in respect of which legal action is stayed.

The moratorium neither settles nor reduces debts. It merely halts the law machines by which debts are commonly collectable, pending action of the Reduction and Settlement Act to higher courts or consideration of what other action may be taken to accomplish the purpose therein aimed at. It leaves out of the present position "on paper" as before that Act was passed, but suspends for the time all attempts to enforce payment on the classes of debts not included in the list of exemptions.

THE NO-DEFENCE POLICY

The estimates for defence expenditure finally got through parliament after six days of debate. The total for the next year is $24,000,000, but for the next year less apparently necessary, will be $20,000,000. That is many hours.
That is to be inferred from the fact that parliament usually deals with the spending program.

Two rather curious lines of criticism were adopted by the dissentient Liberal C.C.F. members and Social Credit members who made an opposition poll of a maximum of 28 votes.

It was claimed the sum was insufficient to provide complete defence of Canadian territory. Would it be sufficient to protect the $24,000,000 had been less than the amount? Not at all. They were not "sufficient" for that many hours.

The other line of criticism was that the demand for assurance was permanent.

The Versatile Parsnip

By DOCTOR FRANK MCCOY

During the winter months when fresh vegetables are scarce, a delicious vegetable served hot and steaming often makes an appetized change. Parsnips do not appeal to everyone, being liked only by some people and exceedingly disliked by others, but everyone may learn to like them.

This vegetable has found its way to many strange uses in the course of its historical career.
Starting out in Asia and Europe as a wild plant, we find it well cultivated by the time of the Romans, the variety and size of the root being greatly enhanced. This vegetable was thought of so highly that it was pictured on the fresco of historical Pompeii.

It almost seems as though when human beings ran out of other things to use they began to use the parsnip and used it as a perpetual substitute. It has, for example, in times of stress been used for flour, although parsnip bread might seem strange to us. In Europe, it has often been used instead of hay for feeding cattle. The roots have been dried, ground and baked, and used as a coffee substitute. In Europe, the parsnip has been used in salads, also been used in the manufacture of wine, and of liquor said to be similar to Madeira. Can you think of any other vegetable which serves as bread, cattle food, hay, coffee, or just a plain battered vegetable?

When the parsnip was a very common food for the poor people of Europe, it found its way into their proverbial sayings. "That doesn't batter any parsnips," is an example of one of these.

Parsnips contain potassium, which is one of the elements which keeps the body young. Those who are underweight and who have developed osteoporosis are usually deficient for potassium. In addition to potassium, the parsnip contains both calcium and magnesium in good amounts.
Parsnips are usually sliced and served in salads, being first washed with a vegetable brush, then scraped and grated. When parsnips are cooked they are usually served with butter and salt.
Some of the valuable mineral elements might be wasted.

Here are a few recipes for parsnips which you may find interesting.

PARSNIP PATTIES

Boil four or five parsnips and when tender, cut in small pieces and mash them. Add a tablespoon of melted butter and one beaten egg. For small cakes, place in a baking pan and brown in the oven, turning over as they are cooked.

BAKED PARSNIPS

Pear, quarter and steam the parsnips, after which they should be arranged in a buttered baking pan, seasoned and baked until brown.

PARSNIPS BAKED WITH BACON

Boil the desired amount of small parsnips, then in a baking dish cover the top with slices of bacon. Bake in a steady oven until the bacon is done to a crisp.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Helen B. D. writes: "What makes my ears itch so badly? They itch until I nearly go crazy and I try to scratch my ears over them, the itching increases. A fluid comes out of them which is thin and clear. The inside of my ear is raw and sore."

ANSWER: From your description, I would judge that your trouble is eczema of the external auditory canal. In such cases, I find that the same general treatment which will bring benefit in overcoming eczema in any other part of the body, is satisfactory. In addition to the general treatment, I suggest that you write to me the irritated surface with the ultra-violet ray light will prove helpful. If you desire an article on eczema which will provide you with further information, please write to me. I will be glad to send an article on eczema to anyone who wants it and request that you enclose with your letter one large, self-addressed stamped envelope.

POEMS THAT LIVE

A QUESTION

To Poets

Joy comes and goes, hope ebbs and flows

Like the wave;

Change does, and the transient strength of men.

Love lends life a little grace,

But for joy and contentment

Both are laid in one cold place,

In the grave.

Dreams dawn and fly, friends smile and die

Like spring flowers;

Our vanished life is one long funeral.

Men dig graves with little care

For their dead hopes; and all

Mixed with doubts and sick with fears,

Count the hours.

We count the hours! These dreams of ours,

Men dig graves with little care

For their dead hopes; and all

Mixed with doubts and sick with fears,

Count the hours.

Do we go hence and find they are not dead?

Joys we dimly apprehend,

Faces that smiled and fled,

Flowers that bloom here and born to end.

Shall we lose them?

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Note on eugenics from Italy.

The scientific climate of Italy has warmed Italians to reduce their wine-drinking. Debilitated it cause a decrease in the birth rate. Several Italian scientists are now advocating "debilitated" which "decrease" having abundant evidence in favor of the phenomena essential to vitality? It says that the birth rate is lowest in countries where wine is not the national drink.

Yesterday this column told of some of the undercurrents in Germany as seen by an anonymous former German. Today's account of some of the underground movements in Italy comes from R. W. Wright, a young Californian graduate who spent some time in Italy during the mobilization for Ethiopia and confers to having taken part in the Italian revolution.

At Limas (Messina) he says, the population rose on mass against the war and set the town on fire. They were maddened by the unbearable taxation and fear of the cries of "Down with the taxes! Down with Mussolini! Down with the war!"

For a violent fight between police and the populace took place on the occasion of the departure of troops for Africa. A number of persons were wounded and over one hundred were arrested.

At Florence disorders arose when a member of the syndicate of journalists (the "learned men" of Italy) tried to disperse a crowd wanting to buy French newspapers to learn of the progress of the war.

In a village in Itria a mass demonstration of the people of Santa Croce against the deportation of Mussolini carried away and destroyed.

In Lago di Romagna a conflict took place between members of the Fascist militia and a group of soldiers who did not wish to leave for the front. The soldiers were killed.

On Jan. 3 of last year in the barracks in Vigevano, Italy, which was quarantined for the plague, on Jan. 9 at Belluno the Battalion Folpe and Belluno of the 7th Regiment mutinied and were ordered to Africa. The men cried "Down with the war! Down with the war!" and after several hours of siege they surrendered on a promise that they would not be sent to Africa. They were never sent to Africa.

Mr. Wiley also gives an account of a visit by himself to Florence which he says he found it to be a very good impression of the impression conveyed by newspapers, showing the vocalizing of his armed force and milling people.

The occasion was the removal of the bones of the "Fascist martyrs" to the crypt under the church of Santa Croce. It was essential that Mussolini appear. According to Mr. Wiley, before the Due came, innumerable agents of the police were sent to the houses of every political suspect. Some were merely required to leave town; others were thrown into prison till Mus-solini's visit was over.

Next, the police searched every home along the route the Due would follow on his drive from the landing field to Santa Croce. Inhabitants were ordered to leave their homes and

TAX BURDEN SPREAD HIT IN LABOR PARLEY

Strategists should be erected to protect "humble citizens" from being made to bear the major portion of the tax burden, according to a statement taken at once to see that the wealthiest parts of the community are made to bear the heaviest assessment, suggested O. Arntsen, vice-president of the Edmonton central council of the Canadian Labor party, in moving the appointment at the annual meeting Wednesday of a special committee to explore the recent tax situation.

MILLER RE-ELECTED
Supporting confidence in his leadership, members unanimously re-elected W. H. Miller, veteran labor official, to the post of president for 1937. With him on the executive were: O. Arntsen, vice-president; Frank Goss, secretary; W. H. Miller, treasurer; and S. Hamilton, M. Mickey, J. Flowers.

"It looks to me," charged Mr. Arntsen, "as if the wealthy people of this city are trying to pile up tax burdens upon the small householder and average citizen. I think that our present tax system is set up in such a way that the wealthy are not hit as heavily as they ought to be."

Disregarding alleged attempts to increase the rates upon incomes in the lower brackets, the speaker charged the present system was shadowed an attempt similar to the one made in the case of the income tax in "Taxes being imposed on people earning $500 and up."

Looking Them Over

EDMONTON—Mydansky and Louis Lavoie will again battle here on March 9 in the western Canada middleweight professional championship eliminations. This was definitely decided last night when Promoter Fred Osbourne conferred with both fighters. On Feb. 2 there was a first time in the eliminations and fought ten rounds to a draw decision. During the fight, Lavoie's blows injured Mydansky's elbow and he had to take a rest. In the meantime Louis went on to fight Goodland and again was victorious with a draw decision.

However, when Lavoie and Mydansky clash this time, they are going to pack their own judges—right in their mitts. Both are determined to score a knockout and settle the matter beyond any question or doubt.

Mydansky's lawyer has restored the fine edge which he had lost when he met Lavoie. Eddie had been fighting a lot for a last only 19 years old and he was going a little state. Now he is stepping through his training routine with a new zest and fire. With two hard ten-round fights under his belt, Lavoie is right in the pink now. His timing and eyes have sharpened up. He would be hard to beat. He has proved a few things out of his form and he's just spilling for a fight. The first time these two middleweights met the fans got probably the first ten rounds of action ever seen here. With the conditions they will be in on the evening of March 9 the coming bout should be a whirlwind—especially since each is sure about the draw decision and determined to land a knock-out punch about which there will be no argument.

While no decision has yet been reached by the Edmonton Boxing Commission, the demand of the fans and fighters for a new referee and new judges seems circumstantial. The officials in charge of the last fight have undoubtedly done their job honestly and to the best of their ability, but there was a handful in the house who saw the fight the same way they did. To clear the air of the smoke left by that last decision, a new slate of officials would be most effective.

Lefty Mydansky Gets Contract

LAST night's mail brought a letter from Lefty Mydansky of Lament, in which the big smiling wrong-end-of-the-barrel news that he has just received a conditional contract with the Boston Red Sox. Lefty will be sent for service with any of the clubs in the extensive farm system of the Red Sox. It came through the efforts of Dave Mydansky, who went to Medford last summer with Lefty and then both of them went to the Pinkies Panthers where Mydansky hit ball through. Like all left hand pitchers, Mydansky has a tendency to be wild at times, but he pitched enough good games last season for the Panthers to warrant his present contract. He seems to have plenty of the stuff that major leagues are built out of.

Tennis Ace Is Native Albertan

FROM a reader at Hainburg comes some interesting notes on Douglas Cameron, Canada's top ranking tennis player for 1936. Cameron is now living at Vancouver, but was born in Vermilion, Alta. His father being W. B. Cameron, publisher of the first paper in that town, was one of the first town council. This pioneer newspaperman witnessed Doug's first tennis match on April 2, 1905, and was taken prisoner by the Indians of his Bears band. By a coincidence, Douglas was born on an anniversary of this famous massacre.

Douglas Cameron is now playing tennis in South America. He and Ross Wilson of Toronto are making the trip as guests of the Ecuadorian Tennis Association. They will have played in Buenos Aires, Chile, Peru and Jamaica before returning to Canada in April.

Redskins Lose 37-31 In Overtime Battle With Golden Bears

Students Practically Cinch Title in Five Out Of Nine Series for Northern Alberta Hoop Title; Martell Top Sniper

In a game which was forced into an overtime period to break a 29-29 tie, the University of Alberta Golden Bears beat the Y.M.C.A. Redskins 37-31 to practically clinch the championship of the province. The Bears, who are the only team to represent Edmonton and Northern Alberta in the provincial playoffs, to be held next month.

Last night's hard earned victory was the fourth for the Bears in five starts. The city playoffs are a five out of nine series. The Bears have won four games straight to beat out the Bears. While the Redskins hold the Bears to closer scores than they did earlier in the season, the Bears' ability of them winning four straight games is pretty remote.

POOR SHOOTING
Poor shooting, caused in no small part by hard and close checking, characterized Wednesday night's game.

The Redskins jumped into the lead in the early minutes of the game. They clicked on their shot and before the Bears got their feet under them, the Redskins were in the lead.

Finding their feet and the range of the basket, the Bears ran the clock down to 14:12, still in favor of the Redskins. The Redskins were again got their rapid fire gun out, and running wild had the score 24-12 in their favor at the half.

Bears came out in the second period playing cooler. The Redskins tried to lead in the second period, but with only a few seconds to go, the Redskins were in the lead.

Sammy Moscovitch, flashy freestyle forward on the Bears, sank a penalty shot to tie the score.

BROKE DEADLOCK
Lees was the first to score in the overtime, and for the first time in the whole game the Varsity boys completed a shot. The Redskins were in the lead.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT

CRIME FILE ON BOLDT BLANK

By Dennis Whalley © 1937 by NEA Service, Inc. William Morris & Co.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Investigating the mysterious disappearance of BOLDT BLANK, Detective Officer Kettering found that the man was a well-known figure in the underworld. He was a man of many names, and his real name was BOLDT BLANK. He was a man of many names, and his real name was BOLDT BLANK. He was a man of many names, and his real name was BOLDT BLANK.

CHAPTER XVII

Detective Officer Neame's short-hand notes of Detective Officer Kettering's second examination of Miss Fern Rockavage. K: Good morning, Miss Rockavage. F: Good morning, Mr. Kettering. K: How long have you been in the city?

F: I'm afraid not. I didn't really notice the time and perhaps it was twenty or twenty-five past when, but surely you're not supposing that I had anything to do with it.

K: Of course not. But you're a woman of many names, aren't you?

F: Yes, I am. K: How long were you with her?

F: She was for me about ten years ago, and I was with her for a quarter of a year.

K: How'd you find her when you came along?

F: All right, she was always cheerful. I'll give her that. She wasn't a hard case, though, getting her out of her dress.

K: That's all. How was the cabin?

F: Can it. You know what I mean. Was it all tidy, or did it look as though she'd had a party?

K: Oh, I'm not sure. I wouldn't be telling you. I like Miss Fern, and I like my job.

K: I get you. Maybe you wouldn't object to a party yourself, some time.

(Notes concluded on this as having no further reference to case.)

Detective Officer Neame's short-hand notes of Detective Officer Kettering's second examination of Mr. Carlton Rockavage.

K: Good morning, Mr. Rockavage.

R: Morning, Mr. Kettering.

K: Now the first question for you, Mr. Rockavage.

R: Oh, then, they opened at 11:30 this morning, but why the question?

K: It was just that I saw what a fine break it is for you that Blue should have faded out just when he did.

R: What the devil do you mean?

K: Quite that you must be making up those Argus shares by the bucket full, and making a fine thing out of it. That's all Mr. Rockavage.

K: Now look here, what are you manufacturing?

R: I'm not manufacturing anything. I'm only voicing what is quite apparent to anybody who knows anything of your financial situation during the past few weeks.

K: You're up against it, Mr. Rockavage. Up against it pretty badly until Blue's death, but now, what happens it was easy enough for you to get all the shares, and now you're making a fine thing out of it. That's all Mr. Rockavage.

K: Before you're much older you'll have control of his companies as well as your own. That will make you the unchallenged king of the soap market with a secure future.

ALL OF SAME MIND

A retailer, on receiving the first delivery of a large order, was moved to find the goods set up to his sample.

Cancel my order immediately, he wired the manufacturer.

They replied: (Repeat) cannot cancel immediately. You must take your time.

BROKEN SPRING?

Judge: You were found under a bed with a bag of tools. Why?

My wife: Force of habit, your honor. I used to be an auto mechanic.

Thank goodness... I don't think I broke any bones!
